CM/ECF passwords should be changed on a regular basis and should always be changed when you have staff turnover.

NEVADA NUGGETS

By
Claimjumpin' Jake 'n Mugsy

Greetin's and salutations loyal readers! This here's a picture of me 'n Mugsy taken last month while we was on our annual trek to Death Valley, huntin' for that illusive yellow gold! (That's me on the right!) 'Bout all we found out there was heat stroke...130 dee-grees in the shade and that shade is harder to find than the gold! But we did fair, got a little poke to tide us over for a spell.

Now lets see... when we last visited I was tellin' you about the history of bankruptcy. We discussed the Romans and the Italians and the French a bit. Cuttin' off ears, public spankings, little green debtor's caps and dismemberment. Charmin' topics! As the years went by, bankruptcy became a bit more civilized. Sort of. Things started to change a little when the English economy began to expand in the 1600's. More and more people started to use credit, and along with it came some unsavory practices that sometimes took advantage of a debtor. So around the turn of the seventeenth century new laws were passed to distinguish between a legitimate debtor and the criminally-inclined, and the image of a debtor began to change in society. After the massive depression following the Seven Year War in 1760, well-regarded citizens of the emerging middle class found themselves unable to repay loans and bankruptcy began to be seen as a sad, but ethical, necessity.

Meanwhile, across the pond, in America, early colonial laws saw debtors being punished by branding a 'T' for thief, burned plumb into their thumbs! And public floggings too!

Oh dang! I'm outta room again just when it was gettin' good! This here's turning out to be one of them serial articles! Well, guess you'll just have to stay tuned to see how it all works out! Yee haw!

Until we meet again...

JUST ASK JERRY!

Q: Jerry, usually when I open a new petition I don’t docket the credit counseling certificate until the next morning, and I still get a Notice of Incomplete and/or Deficient Filing. I don’t know why I’m being penalized when it’s done the very next day. When I get these notices, I invariably get a panicked phone call from our clients, thinking we haven’t done our job properly. How can we avoid this situation?

A: Unfortunately, there is no way we can stop the Notice of Incomplete Filing from generating once the petition has been checked by quality control in our office. This usually takes place early on the very next business day. The only way to avoid this problem is to docket that certificate as soon as you open the case. Please refer to page one of this Bugle for a helpful guideline on how to open your petition properly. Following our step-by-step guide will ensure that you don’t get the dreaded notices! It makes everyone’s job a lot easier when you take each step in the order we’ve listed.

FILING FEE REFUNDS

Please remember that if you have a signed order granting a filing fee refund, you must contact the FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT at the following e-mail address:

Financial@nvb.uscourts.gov

JUDGE / TRUSTEE ASSIGNMENTS

Part of the case opening process is the Judge/Trustee Assignment. THIS MUST BE DONE IMMEDIATELY- AS SOON AS YOU OPEN THE CASE!! It helps us track our panel trustees so that we don’t run short, especially on evenings and weekends. This will also ensure prompt assignment of a judge and a trustee to your case and will immediately generate a 341 notice so that you may plan your court schedule accordingly.
